A ST ALBANS business which installs private cinemas in homes won three industry awards on Friday.

FAB Audio Visual, based in Porters Wood, won three of the home technology installation industry's most prestigious awards during the Custom Electronic Design and Installation Association (CEDIA) awards at the UnderGlobe in Bankside, London.

FAB was short-listed for three price categories at the awards and became the first company ever to win all three.

Director Philip Warris said: "We are absolutely delighted with the awards, which recognise the quality of the installations we provide and our attention to detail.

"Advances in technology have made true home cinema available to many more people - it is an area we are passionate about. The fact we won all three home cinema categories shows we are able to deliver stunning results on any budget."

Judging was based on a range of technical considerations as well as design and how seamlessly the cinemas are integrated into the wider living environment.
